

LETTER FROM THE EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

My Dear Colleagues and Friends:

I am delighted to bring you the Spring 2023 Issue of the JOURNAL OF SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT IN AFRICA (JSDA). This Issue contains papers from East and West African countries, and they address matters of sustainable development and sustainability that have implications for other parts of Africa. The United Nations efforts to further debates, discussions and assist countries to operationalize the SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS (SDGs) have been quite helpful in recent times.

The papers in this Issue have considered many of the ideas about sustainable development put forward by supranational organizations and other research findings on sustainable development and sustainability. The authors of the articles have expanded the reader's knowledge about the circumstances surrounding sustainable development concerns in their areas of study.

We will continue our efforts in providing the platform for the viewpoints and contributions of African scholars and other scholars who are interested advancing the discussions and research on sustainable development in Africa.

Thank you for your continued support.

Sincerely

Valentine Udoh James, CEI, CAQS
Professor of Environmental Management, Planning and Policy
Pennsylvania Western University, Clarion

