

LETTER FROM THE EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
FALL 2024 ISSUE OF THE JOURNAL OF
SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT IN AFRICA (JSDA)

My Dear Friends and Colleagues:

I am delighted to bring you the first article of the Fall 2024 issue of the JOURNAL OF SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT IN AFRICA (JSDA). This article: An Ecosystem Based Approach for Exploring Farm Households' Engagement in Livelihood Income Diversification Strategies: A Case of Boma-Gambella Transboundary Landscape, Southwest Ethiopia and East Sudan contributes immensely to the theoretical and applied aspects of sustainable development and sustainability discussions in Africa and the world at large. The focus of this article, which is on ecosystem approach, livelihood strategies, ecosystem based-livelihoods, food security and transboundary landscape embraces the environmental/ecological, economic and sociological underpinnings of the themes of the JOURNAL OF SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT IN AFRICA (JSDA).

More articles will be added to this issue in the coming weeks.

Sincerely,

Valentine Udoh James, Ph.D.; CEI; CAQS
Professor of Environmental Management, Planning and Policy
Pennsylvania Western University, Clarion, USA